

The Independent Pharmacy Lobby Wants More.

And it will only cost $186 billion.

Even by Washington standards it's amazing: The average independent pharmacy did more than $3.8 million in business last year, according to their industry trade association. But that's not enough for the Independent Pharmacy Lobby. This year they're pushing a special interest package that would add a mind-boggling $186 billion to the federal deficit through bigger mandatory dispensing fees, less pharmacy competition, and higher drug costs in federal programs.*

Tell the Independent Pharmacy Lobby America needs affordable access to prescription drugs, not more special interest pork.

PCMA
PHARMACEUTICAL CARE
MANAGEMENT ASSOCIATION

Visit us online at pcmanet.org

*"Estimating the Budgetary Impact of the Patient Health and Real Medication Access Cost Savings Act of 2009," an analysis of HR 4199 available at www.pcmanet.org