Dear Members of Congress:

Businesses support the federal legal framework created nearly 50 years ago by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) and believe that preserving our ability to contract as we see fit under ERISA is crucial to providing affordability and access to healthcare benefits.

We oppose legislation that would undermine the ability to provide uniform high-value benefits to employees and families across the country, including prescription drug coverage.

We are concerned that federal legislative proposals, including some targeting Pharmacy Benefit Managers (PBMs), will undermine our ability to design drug benefits that best meet the needs of our employees and their families. Congress must continue to preserve the existing contracting flexibility provided under ERISA.

Companies must continue to have the ability to contract, design benefits and sell products free from government interference.
